A Marvellous Underground Voyage.

THE LATEST WESTERN "YARN."

In the Denver Rocky Mountain News of the 17th instant a correspondent tells a tale which is probably intended as a companion to the recent account of the whirlpool outlet of Salt Lake, Utah, which has been going the rounds of the papers. In San Luis Park, at Denver, there is a pond called Lake Schwatch, and here the writer's wondrous experience took place. He says:

Those visitors who have camped near the lake must sometimes have been awaked in the night by a singular gurgling sound like that of fluid escaping from the neck of a demijohn, and perhaps have uncharitably ascribed it to the guzzling propensity of some comrade. I have often heard it, but on a recent night, when I had penetrated far into the swamp in search of mudturtles—really the finest game for the pot in this region—the gurgling became so loud, and at the same time so evidently distant, that my curiosity was much excited. I determined to make an attempt to ascertain the cause of the strange sound.

I pushed on as I could in my skiff for several hours, through water, mud and thickets of reeds, and at length my labor was rewarded. I came to an open lake, perhaps half a mile across, which was bubbling and foaming like a boiling pot, and I could see that beyond a little island the agitation was still greater, and that the water was leaping up in a great jet there and flowing out in all directions, rapidly extending and deepening the lake. At considerable risk I pushed quite near to the center of operations, and could see that the outburst of water was growing larger every minute. The agitation was now so great that I did not dare to remain long near the grand jet; and besides there were choking fumes rising from the surface, suggestive of anything but "the better land."

Just as I started my skiff towards the point at which I entered the lake, my attention was suddenly arrested by what seemed to be a long dug-out ejected violently from the boiling flood. As good luck would have it, it was driven towards me, and what was my astonishment to discover the form of a man lashed to the thwarts in the inside. As quickly as possible I caught hold of the dug-out and towed it to a safe distance beyond the boiling water, thinking only that I was taking an unknown body to its burial. But some signs of life were soon visible in the prostrate form. Happily I had a flask of whisky in my pocket, with which I occasionally wet his lips with good effect, and when I got both boats to the outside of the swamp, not a very respectable lake, it was evident that there was hopes of saving the man's life. Securing help I took him to the nearest ranch, and after three days of careful nursing he is now able to speak. He seems to be a Welchman and a Mormon, and unfortunately can speak very few words that we understand. But we made out the drift of his story, which is so increditable that I do not much blame my neighbors for saying that he is a crazy fellow and I am his silly dupe. But I know where he came out, and so am prepared to put some faith in what he tells us, which is this:

He says his name is Yeneke Sikwot, or Sikwurt; that he come from Wales with Elder Hardy, who converted him six years ago; that he was out fishing on Salt Lake about a week ago, as he thinks, when he found that his boat was being drawn into a great whirlpool; that, finding he must inevitably go down he lashed himself to the thwarts of his boat, thinking it might prevent his being dashed to pieces on the rocks, and that its lightness would cause it to rise to the surface again with him. After he went down into the vortex he remained insensible for how long he does not know, and when he awoke he found himself rapidly borne on a rushing river in total darkness. Luckily he had some food in his bag, and bailing the water from his dugout with his hands, he made himself as comfortable as possible. Occasionally there was a gleam of light through a crevice far above, and just sufficient to show that he was on a wide river with an immense archway of jagged rocks above his head. The occasional fall of a fragment into the water caused him much alarm. His idea of the time that elapsed on this subterranean voyage is necessarily vague, but his famished condition proves that it must have been several days. He has but a single remarkable incident to tell of all that dreary time. Not long before his boat emerged into the lake he passed under a large open cleft in the mountains, so wide that he could look up to distant snowy peaks, and the great chasm of the river was made bright with sunshine. One side of the archway at that point seemed to him a wall of solid, brilliant gold for hundreds of feet above his head, and he thinks for a mile in extent. He has no doubt that there lies the gold "in mass and position" so often spoken of by the great prophet and eulogist of this centre of the globe, and as soon as he is strong enough we shall explore for the cleft where he saw it, which he is confident must be among the mountains encircling this valley.

Such is Sikwot's story. Is it the dream of a madman or is it reality? I can swear that he came out of the lake, and the rest is as yet a matter of faith. If a great subterranean river from Salt Lake flows under this park where is its outlets, for evidently its debouch into the lake can only be caused by an occasional flood in its waters or the obstruction of the stream further down. But speculations are futile. If I obtain any further information from Sikwot, or by our joint explorations of the lake and the neighboring mountains, I will hasten to make it known to you. Ever since I heard Sikwot's narrative, I keep repeating to myself the lines from Coleridge's Kubla Khan:

"Where Alph, the River ran
Through caverns measureless by man,
Down to a sunless sea."

Yours truly, G. ULLIVER.

The Duel.

From the Memphis (Tenn.) Avalanche, June 29th.

Mr James Brizzolara and Mr. George B. Phelan met last evening about seven o'clock, five miles below the city on the Arkansas shore. Mr. Brizzolara fell at the second shot fired by Mr. Phelan, the ball entering the left breast near the nipple, and passing through the left arm. The origin of the unfortunate difficulty is familiar to the readers of the Avalanche. On Saturday last, immediately after the arrest of Mr. Brizzolara by the Sheriff, Mr. Phelan addressed him a note, requesting him to name some place where a correspondence could be inaugurated. Upon consulting with his friends, Mr. Brizzolara designated Hopefield, Arkansas, as the place, and the time, 9 o'clock on Monday morning. At the appointed time Mr. Brizzolara was at Hopefield with his friends, Colonel James Coleman and Col. Rogers. Mr Phelan was also there, attended by Col. M. C. Gallaway and Col. Duncan. Shortly after arriving at the place designated, Mr. Brizzolara received a note from Mr. Phelan demanding unconditional satisfaction, which challenge was promptly accepted by Mr. Brizzolara. Several notes passed as to the terms of the meeting, and a cartel was agreed upon that the gentlemen should meet at Hopefield, Ark., at a point nearly opposite Washington street, Memphis Tenn., at 6 o'clock last evening. The weapons selected were Colt's navy repeaters, the distance fifteen paces, and the terms to fire at will after the word had been given, and to continue firing until the weapons were emptied or one of the parties wounded.

The terms of the duel were of a deadly character, but were selected upon full consultation with Mr. Brizzolara by his seconds.

By some means or other, the rumor of the approaching duel circulated through the city yesterday like wildfire, and at 5 o'clock in the evening several thousand people were assembled on the bluffs, gazing across the river at the Arkansas shore. At 5 o'clock Mr. Brizzolara and friends got on board of the "Check" near the foot of Madison street. Nearly two hundred people crowded on board, anxious to witness the fight. The Check steamed up the river to a point nearly opposite the dry docks, when the steam tug commanded by Capt. Postal came alongside and took on Mr. Brizzolara and seconds. About thirty spectators crowded after them on board the steam tug. The Check steamed over to the Arkansas shore, and put off its load of passengers.

The "tug" steamed over toward Hopefield but stopped in the middle of the river, Mr. Brizzolara's friends seeing a white flag waving from a skiff. On the approach of the skiff, Colonel Gallaway stood up and informed those on board the "tug" not to land as the Sheriff was there ready to arrest the combatants. Colonel Gallaway, Mr. Phelan, and another gentleman who were on board the skiff, came on board the tug." In a few minutes another skiff came alongside with two medical gentlemen.

While the skiff containing Colonel Gallaway and Mr. Phelan approached the steam tug, Mr. Brizzolara was standing on the stern of the tug smoking a cigar. As the skiff passed up toward the bow, Mr. Phelan seeing Mr. Brizzolara, politely raised his hat, which act of courtesy was as politely responded to by Mr. Brizzolara.

After a short consultation between the friends of the combatants, the party again entered the skiff, which example was followed by Mr. Brizzolara and friends, who got on board another skiff. The tug then returned to the Tennessee shore, leaving the principals and their friends in mid stream. This was done for the purpose of getting rid of the crowd on board the tug, as no witnesses were desired at the fight except the immediate friends of the parties. Before those on board the steam tug had landed, the steamer Check put out from the landing, and, taking on board principals, seconds and physicians, steamed down the river to a point on the Arkansas shore five miles from the city. A landing was made and the ground at once stepped off.

Both gentlemen, on taking their respective positions, appeared perfectly calm and collected. Colonel M. C. Gallaway acted as second of Mr. Phelan, and Colonel J. J. Du Bose acted for Mr. Brizzolara. Col. Rogers, who was the original second of Mr. Brizzolara, remained in the tug. When the tug was seized by the peace officers, Colonel Rogers could not get down to the "Check" in time to get on board. Consequently he was left behind, and Colonel J. J. Du Bose acted as above stated, as the second of Mr. Brizzolara, in which he was assisted by Col. James Coleman. Upon the question being asked, according to the cartel, "Gentlemen, are you ready?" both gentlemen responded in an audibie tone of voice, "ready." The word at once came, "Fire!" Mr. Brizzolara fired immediately at the word, missing his opponent. Mr. Phelan fired with like effect. Two shots were then fired rapidly by Mr. Brizzolara, neither of which took effect. As he was cocking his pistol to fire the fourth time he threw his breast forward and received Mr. Phelan's second shot in the manner designated above. He immediately fell, and Mr. Phelan ceased firing. The parties returned to the city on the Check. Mr. Brizzolara was carried to the residence of his sister, on Union street, and medical attendance at once secured. At a late hour last night there was a slight hemorrhage from the lungs of rather a dangerous character, and the wound was regarded by the attending physicians as probably fatal.

Pompeii.

A VISIT TO THE OLD POMPEIIAN HOUSEHOLD—THE CONTINUED EXCAVATIONS.

Pompeii, at the base of Vesuvius, struggles again for life! Sweep back two thousand years, reader, and stand with me on the vast remains of an ancient city, whose streets, theaters and temples begin to revive in graceful ruins. From the tangled mass beneath the lava, voluminous art, strewn amid the courts and thermæ of that once proud city, breathing existence in the haughtiest age of the Roman empire, rises reanimated. Exquisite mural paintings in the roofless chambers, as fresh and plain as if they had been executed yesterday, disinterred from their long burial, mirror the luxuriousness and debasness of Pompeiian life. A perfect fascination creeps over the wondering visitor, when standing at the bottom of the market place, he looks up the silent streets, through the ruined temples of Jupiter and Isis, over broken palaces with exposed sanctuaries, to Mount Vesavius in the peaceful distance. It is like a dream. You have but little heed of time, and no understanding of its flight. The strange scene grows melancholy in its sensation, when we ramble on, passing relics of human inhabitation and life—the stone rim of the exhausted well, worn by the bucket rope; the marks of the carriage wheel in the narrow streets, the places for drinking vessels on the marble counter of the wine shop; the Amphorae, in private cellars, hundreds of years ago put away; the miller's wheel and his oven, where for two thousand years lay his last baking; the house of Diomedes, where skeletons were found huddled together near the door, as if attempting to escape, shrunken inside to scanty bones, and hardened with ashes—are the scenes of this ghostly city, awfully impressive and solemn. Moving on, baths, amphitheatres, and temples, where the gods were wont to be worshiped by the priests, dimly show the revelry of pleasure, the pursuit of games, and the superstitious adoration of that elysian age. Perhaps the dim vista of imagination becomes paramount to that reality, when looking upon the neighboring grounds, we reflect that house upon house, palace upon palace, temple upon temple, monument upon monument, are still lying underneath the quiet growth, and their untold wealth of art, classic stories, mythological fables, conceits of cupids, theatrical rehearsals, poetic recitations, artistically told in colors, and the mysteries of antiquity, are waiting to be turned up to the light of day. Sitting upon a fragment of stone, covered with ancient mosses, where the sleepy lizard crept, and the nimble grasshopper skipped, I watched the slow excavation of a room, and saw burst into light for the first time since the fearful eruption the aerial grace of the Pompeiian dancing girls, with a dazzling brilliancy of color, as beautiful as though the artist had that moment put his finishing touch upon them. Imperial Rome proudly points to the dignity of her Forum; the colossal grandeur of her Coliseum; the magnificence of the remains of eminence and power of her Christian civilization; to the wide Campania with miles of aqueducts stretching to Tivoli and Tiroli itself, with Hadrian's massive villa, where the Emperor gathered his spoils of travel and feasted poets, philosophers and statesmen. But this vast sea, linked by memories of study and sacred in the recollections of scholastic pedantries, is not more impressive than the awful sublimity of "this city of the dead." Had Vesuvius, in its fury, burst the earth and buried the city in its bowels, and not left a single trace, the solitude would not have been less solemn. It is a curiosity to trace how the melted lava penetrated into every nook and corner, entered toombs and forced the ashes of the dead from their funeral urns; crawled into the eyes, ears and mouths of the living like hot lead poured into a mold. Layer upon layer, as perfect as though the hand of genius had systematically placed them there, mark the different deposits of eruptions—in some places as solid as marble. The work of excavation goes on daily; the girls, boys, men and women carry away the debris, and hunting for precious articles, often find rings, jewelry, and coins, or delicate mosaic works. Every erect or fallen column, every mark of that awful catastrophe, suggests to our mind the horror of that hour when "day was turned into night and light into darkness." The delicious breeze of the south, passing over the gulf of centuries, lifts the cloud of smoke hanging over the fatal destroyer, still heaving, ready at any time to send forth her charge.

AGRICULTURAL.

CULTURE OF HOUSE PLANTS.—"S. O. J." in an essay on "Window Gardening," in the N. E. Farmer, notices the following liquid fertilizer for house plants, which may be prepared thus:

Dissolve two ounces of carbonate of ammonia (common smelling salts) in a pint of water, and then drop in sulphuric acid (oil of vitriol) until all effervescence or bubbling ceases. A tablespoonful of the solution of sulphate of ammonia, mixed with one gallon of warm water, is a most efficacious liquid manure, and not at all disagreeable to use in any parlor or chamber. It should be applied at first once a week, then every four or five days. It requires but little skill to grow a plant fast, as stimulating liquids, good compost, and a warm room will always hasten their growth. But remember the faster a plant grows, the wider apart are the leaves; the more stem there is, the more distant the lateral branches will be, and the more gawky the plant. The skill of the gardener is shown in producing a plant of the best form that it can be grown. Beauty in foliage can never be attained when the leaves, which should fill a foot in space, are stretched out to a yard, and the clusters of flowers which should grace a plant two feet in height, are scattered over two yards of half-naked stalks. Slower growth is retained by lowering the temperature at night, when there is no danger of frost. Shut out the furnace heat entirely, or open the doors and cool off the room. By thus reducing the warmth, and giving all the fresh air which is possible, and by being careful not to water too much, allowing no water to remain in the saucers of any plants but Callalillies and Lobelias, a fine compact habit can be obtained.

We wish we could inspire every woman and child with a love for flowers and their cultivation. It is the healthiest and purest of pleasures, and soon the amateur becomes intensely interested and entertained. In the country, this pursuit will while away many an hour, and confer great benefits upon the florist. Our daughters, in numerous instances, are suffaring in mind and body for open air and exercise. The garden offers them all this and infinitely more. The English ladies have devoted their morning hours to gardening for many years. They are not afraid of the trowel or the rake, nor of soiling their dainty fingers, and their fine rosy complexions and robust figures attest the vigor and health these occupations have imparted.

WATERING PLANTS.—It is not wise to begin to water plants in the garden, unless it is intended to follow it up thoroughly. If plants in the open ground are watered, they throw out their little roots near the surface in order to drink in the moisture, and if afterwards the watering be neglected, these little fibrous roots perish for lack of moisture, and the plant suffers. When they are not watered at all, the little roots go deeper, and in well cultivated soil, in good condition, they will find enough to keep them from suffering, unless the drought continues unusually long. If it seem necessary to give water, it should be copiously in quantity sufficient to go down to the bottom of the roots; a sprinkling that wets the surface is worse than none. Sprinkling the leaves to wash off the dust, if done in the evening after the sun is down, will improve the appearance and health of plants.

ABUSE OF POULTRY.—A writer in the Working Farmer, exclaims: Eggs, forty cents a dozen! And the hens have no place open to them where they can lay an egg that will not be frozen in thirty minutes. The horse has a stall, the hog a pen, the dog a kennel—all of them as warm as they should be for their occupant's comfort; but there is no apartment about the premises for hens, whose eggs are worth over three cents apiece. They are treated like feathered Ishmaelites by both man and beast. The horses snap at them if they venture near them to find a roost; the boys attack them with pitchforks, if they try to keep themselves from freezing by burying themselves in the hay on the mow; and the "very dogs bark at them," and bite them, too, if they take refuge under the barn or corn crib.

A correspondent of the Cottage Gardner says that the best compost for potted roses is one-third each of rich, stiff clay, sand, or fine ashes, and decayed black dung. Pelargoniams, fucias, roses, strawberries, holyhocks, and dahlias all like cow-dung. For the last two it is perhaps the best of manures. It contains more potash than any other animal manure; hence as potash is the grand constituent of a strawberry, it is also excellent for that delicious fruit. In a word, cow dung is one of the best of manures. The same may be said of soot, which contains nitrogen and carbon. In watering pot roses, a skewer should be used to make holes in the soil to let in the water.

CUCUMBERS.—The following plan is recommended for raising cucumbers: "Sink a flour barrel in the ground, with a gimlet hole in each stave, about nine inches from the top; fill it nearly to the top with well rotted manure; then put in as much water as it will hold every day, and at the same time stir it with a strong stick from bottom to top; put in fresh manure about twice during the season; make around this barrel, close up to it, six hills, in which plant the seed, and start them rapidly with some fertilizer. If the striped bug should make its appearance, use plaster freely over the hills and plants. These six hills will probably produce more cucumbers than twenty placed in the ordinary way."

Passengers from the Windward Islands report that several very severe shocks of earthquake were experienced on the morning of the 9th ult., at ten minutes past nine, and considerable damage was done to wall buildings. The sea rose to a great height about the Island of Guadaloupe, and when returning the violence was so great that vessels were carried far out of the harbor. From present data it is impossible to estimate the extent of country affected or the amount of damage done.

The story about a certain Henry Miller, who has been peddling gas burners in the South, having fallen heir to $10,000,000 by the death of a relative in New York turns out to be a hoax.

Indianapolis was delighted with the International Young Men's Christian Convention, and it is said that the feeling was reciprocated.

Washington Letter.

HOT AND DRY WEATHER—INCOME TAX NOT DEAD—RUMORS OF A BREAK IN THE REPUBLICAN PARTY—PASSAGE OF THE FUNDING BILL IN THE HOUSE—SARATOGA AND LONG BRANCH RACE HORSES FROM CANADA DUTY FREE—HEAVY REDUCTION OF THE NATIONAL DEBT—THE REJECTED CADET APPOINTEES TO WEST POINT—GENERAL LAND OFFICE.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 2d, 1870.

During nearly every day, until to-day, for the past two weeks, the mercury has been at an altitude of from seventy to ninety-six degrees in the shade, and occasionally as high as ninety-eight, and one day reaching one hundred. We have had no rain and the earth, with its vegetation, had become parched with the heat. The people generally being alarmed at the prospects of a severe drought, began to abuse the weather, almost questioning the Providence of such dry and hot weather. But yesterday evening, without any notice, the skies over and around became dark with clouds, and the air at once became cool, and refreshing, apprising us that the change was the beneficial result of rain at a distance.

Probably never in the history of Congressional legislation has there been such a summer-sault made as was made in the Senate last night. Every one believed from witnessing the deliberations of the Senate during the past few days, that there was to be no renewal of the income tax. The Treasury Secretary and Commissioner Delano, had consulted the best interest of the country, and agreed to dismiss all superfluous labor in the Internal Revenue department, and feeling sure that the income tax had been virtually abolished, Commissioner Delano immediately yesterday ordered the dismissal of a number of regular assistant assessors, and all the special assistant assessors employed to assess the income tax. In considering the tax and tariff bill yesterday, as was anticipated, the section relating to the income tax was stricken out, by a vote of 26 to 21. But late last night the motion of Senator Edmonds to reconsider the vote striking out the income section prevailed by a vote of 27 to 26, whereupon Mr. Wilson offered an amendment continuing the income tax for two years, at the rate of two-and-a-half per cent. and making the exemption two thousand dollars instead of fifteen hundred as was agreed on by the House. The House knowing that on it rests the responsibility of either concurring to the Senate's amendment, or allowing the tax to expire by limitation, can hardly afford to let this bill pass the remainder of the session without acting upon it; and it must either favor this income tax substitute, or stultify itself.

The political sky in Washington is at present filled with alarming rumors of a shake and a break in the Republican party. The enemies of the Republican party are ever ready to catch at every straw which might in any way indicate some disagreement between the President and Congress. The defeat of the San Domingo treaty afforded an opportunity to make the ball and set it to rolling. The appointment yesterday of Government officers for the city of New York to supercede the present incumbents, Collector, Subtreasurer, district Attorney, and Naval officers, has given momentum to the ball, and it is thought it may make interesting times in the nominating conventions for the fall election of New York. It seems that these changes in the federal officers in New York will revive the war between the Fenton and Morgan cliques of that State. The new Collector is considered a conservative Republican, and is of the old Weed school.

After a lengthy debate, and by a vote of 129 to 41, the House has at last passed the funding bill. After all the amendments offered effecting some virtue in the bill, not one was adopted, and the bill now goes to the Senate in the same shape as it came from the Ways and Means Committee. It is not expected that the Senate will pass it, as it leaves to Mr. Boutwell's discretion whether to inforce it or not, and it is well understood that he will not enforce it. It seems now that the virtue of the bill rests only in an enacting clause for refunding and consolidating our National debt

Representative Morrissey called upon the President yesterday, in the interest of the race courses at Saratoga and Long Branch, effected by the imposing of duties on race horses brought from Canada. The result of this interview, was a letter from the President to the Collector, at Burlington, Vt., directing him not to exact duties on horses coming from Canada intended for the races at Saratoga and Long Branch.

There has been a wonderful calm in local politics here since the election in June. The petty politicians and contractors who fought so tenaciously and desperately for Bowen's election, have all subsided, and stand like monuments in a grave yard—silent, yet eloquently indicating there is something dead beneath.

The heavy reduction of the public debt during the past month, is a subject for general congratulation here. The retrenchment policy of the administration, and the very able manner in which Secretary Boutwell conducts the financial affairs of the Nation, is making new converts every day to Grant's administration, little ripples like the defeat of the San Domingo treaty to the contrary, notwithstanding.

There is some little dissatisfaction felt among some of the Southern Congressmen on account of the strict examination imposed upon the cadet appointees at West Point. No inconsiderable number of those rejected this week have returned to Washington to urge their members to intercede in their behalf, with a view of making another trial for admission. Among the number here are three colored nominees.

Commissioner Wilson of the General Land Office, is in receipt of returns from the following district land offices, showing a disposal during the past month of 71,847 acres of the public lands: Humbold, Kansas, 46,185; Sioux City, Iowa, 25,662. Also, has transmitted to the land Commissioner of the Flint and Pere Marquette Railroad company, nineteen copies of certified schedules, comprising twenty-two pages, and embracing in the aggregate 311,435 acres of lands granted by the act of Congress of June 3, 1856, to the State in aid of the construction of said Railroad. Also, has submitted to the Secretary of the Interior for approval schedules of tracts embracing in the aggregate 144,481 acres, selected in the district of lands subject to sale at Council Bluffs, as inuring under act of Congress of Congress of June 24, 1864, which granted the odd and even sections for 20 miles to aid in the construction of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroads, assignees of the Mississippi and Missouri company of Iowa.

LIFE.

Sir James Clark.

This eminent English physician, whose death has been announced by cable, was the son of a Scotch farmer, and was born at Findlater, Banffshire, on the 14th of December, 1788. He studied at King's College, Aberdeen, and afterward completed his medical education at Edinburg University, where he took the degree of M. D., in 1817. After this he spent some time in traveling on the continent of Europe, and in 1820 settled as a physician in Rome. He published, the same year, a volume of notes of his scientific tour, entitled "Medical Notes on Climate, Diseases, Hospitals and Medical Schools in France, Italy and Switzerland. His reputation for the skillful treatment of lung diseases began to grow from this period, and on his return to Edinburgh in 1826, he secured an extensive practice. He afterwards set[illegible] where he became physicia[illegible] George's Hospital, and wha[illegible] private physician to the King a[illegible] of the Belgians, and to the Duc[illegible] Kent and her daughter, the Princess [illegible]toria. On the accession of the latter to the throne of England in 1837, he became one of the royal physicians and was elevated to the rank of Baronet. Since this period he has retained the confidence of the Queen, and his services have be[illegible] frequently in requisition at other E[illegible]pean Courts. The only blot th[illegible] upon his memory is his share [illegible] fair of the unfortunate Lady [illegible]ings, in 1839, from which [illegible] pletely exculpated hims[illegible]elf. Besides the work above referred to, [illegible] Sir James was the author of "The S[illegible]native Influence of Climate," and a "[illegible] Treatise on Pulmonary Consumption."

MONTH [illegible] month Secretary Boutwell shows [illegible]nis hand and lets the people see w[illegible]at progress he is making in collecti[illegible] the revenues and paying the debt [illegible] the Government. And every such statement furnishes new and incontestible evidence of our immense resources, and the energy, the honesty, and the economy, which characterizes President Grant's administration. The decrease of the public debt from June 1st to June 30th inclusive amounts to the formidable sum of $20,203,772 04; or, in other words, the debt has decreased during the month just passed on an average of $573,439 06 per day! The reduction for June is by several millions the largest ever made in a single month. The total decrease since the advent of President Grant's administration has been $123,873,402 21. We shall never hear any more, in any future political contest, of repudiation, for at such a rate of payment, at the rate of two hundred and fifty millions a year, the whole debt will be wiped out before 1880. Politicians may grumble at Grant but the people know that he is a faithful steward and an incorruptible public servant.

It is said that, within twenty-five miles around the White Sulphur Springs of West Virginia, there is more iron ore than in the whole of Great Britain.

Four thousand tons of ore were thrown out at a single blast in the Lake Superior iron region the other day. Fifteen and a half kegs of powder were used.

An Ohio youth, sitting in church, mistook the gentle touch of the plume on the jaunty hat of a young lady for a fly on his neck, and with the energy of exasperation sent plume, hat and chignon flying into a distant pew.

There being no charges before the court of the Lord Mayor of London, on the 4th instant, in accordance with custom a pair of white kid gloves were given to his Lordship and the chief clerk.

A boy in a country school was reading the following sentences; "The lighthouse is a landmark by day and a beacon by night," and rendered it thus: "The lighthouse is a landlord by day and a deacon by night."

It is said that Spotted Tail found his favorite wife dead, when he reached home, and buried the white man's presents in her grave.

Mr. John T. Alexandet, the great Illinois cattle dealer, has a single "patch" of corn of 5,500 acres on his farm in Champaign county.

The Crown Princess of Prussia has another daughter, and Queen Victoria another grand-daughter, born two or three weeks since.

Mr. George McDonald, the novelist, has recovered his health. For a long time he was thought to be hopelessly ill.

A man is traveling about Scotland in a coat of mail highly polished, the object being to advertise the excellence of the black lead with which the mail is kept bright.

A Michigan man recently separated from his wife and advertised for another one. His letter was answered, a meeting arranged, and behold, it was his wife. They made it up, and went together.

Mr. S. L. Fildes, who draws the pictures for "Edwin Drood," has also illustrated the "authorized English translation" of "The Man who Laughs," which, by the way, has only just appeared in London.

A Broadside for Humbugs.—Incompetence and assurance generally go hand in hand, and of all the tribe of pretentious knownothings with which society is afflicted, the unscientific "medicine men" who attempt to tamper with the health of the community are the most dangerous and the most impudent.

So much by way of Text. Now for a special and particular application.

It appears that a mushroom growth of so-called "Bitters," is springing up under different names in various localities, particularly in the Southern and Western States, which the venders have the hardihood to recommend to easy-going people upon whom they think they can impose, as a substitute for Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, long recognized by every class as the purest and best medicated stimulant and invigorant the world affords.

The concoctions referred to being composed of worthless material, offer a larger margin for profit than that Celebrated Tonic, and hence the anxiety of dollar-worshiping dealers to foist them upon the public in its place.

But "forewarned is forearmed," and all parties whom these distinguished (!) beings are endeavoring to coax and inveigle into substituting trash for a standard remedy, are hereby informed of the selfish and sordid motives which underlie the representations in question.

The great popularity and vast sales of Hostetter's Bitters cannot, of course, be seriously impaired by these "tricks of trade," but as the debilitated and suffering have a direct interest in the matter, it is only an act of common humanity to put them on their guard.

FRANK THORNE, or Thornton, who is to leap from the Suspension bridge, Niagara Falls, is the venturesome youth who fell from the rope walk and broke a leg in Titusville, July 4th, 1868.

SEVERAL slight injuries occurred on the 4th from the use of "Union" and "Young America" torpedoes. They are a very dangerous explosive, and in many other places their sale had been prohibited by the local authorities.

MESSRS. WM. JOHNS and William M. Major, of Spartansburg, have just struck a forty barrel well on the Boston Petroleum Co.'s tract of the Wm. McCray farm, near Petroleum Centre. This is the second well on the farm, and indicates that there is oil there in paying quantities.

AN unfortunate man named Thomas Firth, a confirmed lunatic, was yesterday removed in charge of his friends to the Dixmont asylum. He was for two years an inmate of an Ohio asylum, and was discharged apparently well, but a renewal of the infirmity has necessitated the same treatment.

SOLDIERS' ORPHAN SCHOOL.—Supt McFarland gives notice that the school year will close on Friday, July 22, 1870, when the usual summer vacation will commence, terminating on Thursday, September 1, 1870. The vacation will be preceded by the second annual examination, which will occur in Titusville on Friday next, July 8th.

THE Titusville HERALD will oblige us by answering this query. Was Mr. Anderson registered in the fall of 1869 in Crawford county, and if so, did he vote there in the gubernatorial election?—Pittsburgh Gazette.

Mr. Anderson was registered in the city of Titusville in the fall of 1869, and voted at the Second Ward polls in Titusville in the gubernatorial election. The members of the election board of the said ward have made affidavits to that effect, and the Prothonotary at Meadville has certificates that Mr. Anderson's name appears in the list of registered voters at Titusville October 13th, 1869.

AMONG the most noticeable street improvements this season is the grading of Walnut street, between Martin and Drake streets. A few months ago the street was almost impassable in wet weather, and with every high freshet there was an overflow from Church Run which inundated the lower section of the street and the lots adjacent. This has been remedied by widening and deepening the channel and raising the grade both upon Walnut and Drake streets. A new bridge is also in process of construction at the Church Run crossing of Walnut street. Property has greatly appreciated in value, in consequence of these improvements, and the vacant lots on the street will be covered with tasteful residences.

Destructive Fire at Oil City.

NEWSPAPER OFFICE, HOTEL, SHOPS AND STORES AND LODGING HOUSES DESTROYED—LOSS $20,000.

A destructive fire occurred at Oil City on the night of the Fourth, laying in ashes the entire block of buildings situated on the east side of Main street, along the bank of Oil Creek just above its junction with the Allegheny; the burnt district extending from the west end of the iron bridge to Linden's well. The fire broke out about 12 o'clock in the millinery store of Miss N. P. Dale, a few doors north of the Linden well, and is said to have been occasioned by the breaking or explosion of a lamp. The alarm was promptly given, and the fire department arrived on the ground, and went into action as soon as could be expected, but the flames spread rapidly, the tenements and their contents being dry and combustible as tinder. By the special efforts of the steam fire engine the progress of the fire was stayed at the Linden well, though its engine house was destroyed; the well itself and tankage escaped intact. Protective Engine No. 2 and College Hill Engine No. 3 rendered good service, but by the uncoupling of their hose failed to get the fire under control until it had swept up to the bridge; besides they labored under great disadvantage from the narrowness of the street passage. Fortunately, there was no wind stirring, and the few buildings on the opposite side of the street, along the bluff, escaped. The buildings destroyed were of moderate value, and the stores and shops were mostly second class. The following list will embrace most of the losses:

Frank Newton, Barber; loss $200.

Miss N. P. Dale, Milliner; loss $2,000; insured $1,500.

S. W. Seidner, Liquor Store; loss $1,500; no insurance; building owned by L. Bear, of Pittsburg.

William Tinttoff, Jeweller; loss $1,500.

L. Davis, merchant tailor, loss $1,200.

J. C. McDonald, shoe shop, loss $500.

J. G. Boyle ditto, loss small.

Snow House, loss $3,500, no insurance.

Times office, press destroyed but other material saved in a damaged condition. We are requested to state that the paper will be revived in the course of two or three weeks.

Among the tenants who suffered a loss of furniture &c., to the extent of several hundred dollars apiece, were Mr. L. Bloomingdale, Phil. E. Smith., J. C. Smith. The engine house of the Linden well was destroyed, loss $150. The Allen Block, the only three-story building in the row, was owned by Page & Storrow of Boston, their agent being H. C. Graham, Esq., of Oil City. The upper floors were occupied by offices and sleeping rooms. The Oil City Club had their rooms in one of the buildings which was destroyed. The site of the buildings which is but a narrow strip only 35 feet wide, and 175 feet frontage on the creek is the property of the Mitis Petroleum Co. of Pittsburgh, of which "Gov." Johnson is agent. The leases have still three years to run, and as they altogether yield the company a revenue of over $850 a year it is a question whether the tenants will be relieved from payment, unless there is a saving clause in their contracts. The Linden well spoken of has been a fortune to its owners, having produced steadily for six years past, and still holds out, at a few barrels a day. There were quite a number of families and employes in the building connected with the different shops and stores, who are thus turned out of doors, but no loss to life occurred. It was not a section of the city where the main business was transacted, or where the loss in the way of stores, offices or merchandize will be severely felt. The estimated loss is $20,000.

Dwelling houses in First Ward	280
" " Second "	303
" " Third "	318
" " Fourth "	296
Total No. of dwellings houses	1257
Families First Ward	390
" Second "	408
" Third "	344
" Fourth "	350
Total No of families	1,592
No. of inhabitants First Ward	1,875
" " Second "	2,428
" " Third "	2,057
" " Fourth "	2,152
Total No. inhabitants	8,712

It will be seen that the enumeration is but little short of 9,000, and when we take into account a population of between three and four hundred within a few rods west of the city line, near the Driving Park, the resident population exceeds 9,000. The floating population of the city, men who reside here only for the transaction of business, or for employment, and whose families live elsewhere, are not included in the census. They are a very numerous class, being estimated at between two and three thousand. The population of Titusville has never been as large as now, although extravagantly estimated in some former years. The growth of the city during the last year has been remarkable, as indicated by the unprecedented building operations and the increase of business houses. These all have a permanent character, and there was never a time when the future seemed so promising for the growth and prosperity of our young and enterprising city.

THE ordination of the Rev. Andrew Murdock, pastor of the First Baptist church, will take place to-morrow, Thursday, July 7th. Afternoon services commence at 2:30, evening services at 7:30. The sermon will be preached in the evening by the Rev. Dr. Robinson, President of the Rochester Theological Seminary. The Revs. Messrs. Miles, of Jamestown; Austin and Crane, of Meadville; Spoor, of Oil City; Harvey, of Erie; Connelly of Corry, and others, are expected to be present. All are cordially invited.

WE omitted to mention at the proper time, some weeks since, that Messrs. Frey & Bear, formerly in the Corinthian Hall Block, had fitted up a store of their own on Franklin street near Arch, and stocked it with a choice assortment of wines and liquors. This firm is one of the oldest in the city and has a quiet but pleasant way of doing a large and profitable business.

MASONIC.—There will be a special assembly of Corry Council No. 37, Tuesday evening, July 12th. M. P. G. M., C. F. Knapp will be present to confer degrees.

WATERMELLONS, cantelopes, plums, corn, cucumbers, beets, cabbage, squash, and all sorts of fruit and vegetables, received daily at Shank's.

The Fourth.

The day we didn't celebrate in Titusville passed off very noisily notwithstanding, for Young America made up for the want of a general public display by a terrifying combustion of fire-works from before daybreak till after midnight. Otherwise there was nothing worthy of note except the races, which attracted large crowds of people from the surrounding country, and afforded a splendid exhibition. In the evening there were many private displays of fireworks which attracted much attention.

At Corry there was a grand public demonstration, which eclipsed everything of the kind before attempted in that patriotic town. There was an extensive procession in the morning, and at the Driving Park an oration by Prof. Fowler, of Pittsburgh. In the afternoon there was a burlesque cavalcade, a trial race on the pond, a greasy pole climbing match, and in the evening a full display of fire-works. The Titusville Fire Department united in the celebration, and were accompanied by Coleman's cornet band.

At Meadville the Odd Fellows conducted the ceremonies, and neighboring lodges were present in great force, the Titusville lodge having a very creditable representation. Vice President Colfax delivered an oration on National affairs, and Grand Sire J. W. Stokes addressed himself to the fraternity.

At Oil City there was a public procession, oration by N. J. Galbraith, match game of base ball, a firemen's fair, and a display of fireworks, which wound up with an accidental fire in the evening.

The citizens of Pleasantville witnessed a balloon ascension, and exercises appropriate to the day. Enterprise had a delightful picnic, which was largely attended, and passed off very happily.

The Races.

The programme of the Driving Park Association on the 4th attracted a very large crowd of spectators, there being 2,500 persons within the enclosure in the afternoon. The day was highly favorable, the track in excellent condition and the races passed off in good order, and afforded entire satisfaction. We have not space for a detailed report, but append a schedule:

Racing Purse $200—$100 to first; $75 to second; $25 to third.

BASE BALL AT OIL CITY.—On the fourth the Allegheny Base Ball Club, of Allegheny city, played the Senecas, of Oil City, on the grounds of the latter. Ample preparations were made for the spectators, of whom there were upwards of 1,500 present. A charge of fifty cents was collected at the gate, which was divided between the clubs. Betting was lively, and at first the odds were in favor of the Senecas. It shaded off to even at the close of the first innings, when the score stood 5 to 3 against Oil City. After each club had been three times to the bat, and the score run 17 to 7 in favor of the visitors, those who had staked their money on home talent looked lugubrious. Both clubs worked hard and did their best. The Alleghenies are very strong at the bat, and many of their nine are well up in their several positions. The Senecas showed good courage, and to the last watched the game closely, and made all the counts they could. Mr. Larson, of Shamburg, acted as umpire, and his decisions were rendered with promptness and impartiality. We append the score:

ACCIDENT.—An accident occurred at Mr. John C. Bryan's residence from the firing of pyrotechnics on the evening of the 4th, which for a time threatened serious consequences. A rocket which Mr. Bryan had lighted, fell among other fireworks and instantly set them ablaze. Mrs. Bryan's clothing was badly burned, but owing to timely assistance she escaped without personal injury. Mr. Bryan's hands were badly burned, but through active exertions no other damage was sustained.

Titusville, May 17—tf.

THE hot weather has brought out the following odo to midsummer:

Oh for a lodge in a garden of cucumbers!
Oh for an iceberg or two at control!
Oh for a vale which at midday the dew sumbers!
Oh for a pleasure trip up to the Pole!

Oh for a little one-story thermometer,
With nothing but Zeroes all ranged in a row!
Oh for a big, double-barrelled hydrometer,
To measure this moisture that rolls from my brow!

Oh that this cold world were twenty times colder!
(That's irony red hot, it seemeth to me.)
Oh for a turn of its dreaded cold shoulder!
Oh what a comfort an ague would be!

Prevention of Boiler Incrustation.

A series of observations extending over several years would seem to show that the hardest and most stone-like of all boiler incrustations is that in which carbonate of lime enters as a component, in the proportion of from twenty to twenty-five per cent. of the mass. To E. Wilderhold we were indebted for this knowledge, and for the suggestion of a very simple means for prevention of the formation of the same. He has found that fatty clays generally possess the property of preventing the carbonate and sulphate of lime, which may be dissolved in the water feeding a boiler, from clinging together, as they may be separated, and forming a hard stone-like mass on the sides. If, therefore, there be added to any feed water, even one of the hardest description, a quantity of the fat clay, especially the kind known as fuller's earth, the sediment produced on evaporation will settle in the form of a non-coherent, soft mud, which may easily be run off through the sludge-valve of the boiler. M. Wilderhold has fully tested this certainly simple anti-incrustator during the lapse of a number of years, and found the results to be eminently satisfactory. According to the Annalee de Genie Civil the same result may be effected by introducing raw potatoes or even the refuse leather cuttings from tanneries into boilers. The potatoes were tried in France for fourteen consecutive months with an eight-horse power boiler, into which they were introduced, to the amount of ten kilogrammes per week, through the safety-valve. At the end of each week the deposit was removed previous to adding a fresh supply of the preventive. At the end of the fourteen months "no trace of a permanent incrustation was found; the appearance of the plates was blackish and slightly greasy, and the corners of the joints were in the same state as when first made." We have known this remedy to be repeatedly tried in this country with success.—New York Engineer.

IN the elevated railway in New York, and in the Brooklyn Bridge projected railway, the cars are to be propelled by an endless wire rope worked by stationary engines. The same plan has been tried, with measurable success, on an ordinary street railroad in New Orleans, the car starting without jar, moving smoothly, and being checked with perfect ease at various places on the route. The rope passes over pullies set in the street between the rails, and the car, being hooked to it, is whirled along at a steady pace. General Beauregard is the inventor of the New Orleans device, and claims that it will effect an immense saving by dispensing with horse and mule power, but it requires no great consideration to predict that it will never come into general use on ordinary street railroads.

THE Fire Department of Oil City close their festival at Innis's Hall, Seneca street, Oil City, to-night. There will be of course a large attendance, and the usual attractions of music, refreshments and dancing. Gold watches, silver services, gold headed canes, etc., are to be donated to the most popular oil dealers, railroad conductors and engineers, hotel keepers, clergymen, physicians, etc., and a lively contest is looked for among the voters. Innis's Hall presents a gay appearance, in its holiday decorations. The dancing floor, 40 by 100, is smooth and polished as marble The Oil City brass band and string band will furnish the music.

ON the first of July three important postal conventions went into effect, viz: The new postal treaty with the North German Union, reducing letter rate of postage from ten to seven cents, by direct route, and from fifteen to ten cents via England, to all States composing the North German postal jurisdiction, including Austria, Luxemburg, &c. Also, the new postal conventions with the Hawaiian Kingdom and North British Columbia respectively, fixing the prepaid postage on letters to each of those countries at six cents per single rate. Four hundred new money-order offices will be put in operation during the present month. The free delivery system will also be extended.

THE Overland Monthly, for July, comes to us filled with its usual complement of excellent reading matter. Its contents are as follows: My first visit to Brook Farm; Joe Lahaina; An Evening and a Morning in Colima; Sail Ho; A Dark Night on Picket; The Dinner Party; Through the Lower Coast Counties; Lumbering in Washington Territory; If Only; The Spectre Bull of Salinas; The Farmsley—House; Sacramento Etchings; Yosemite on Foot; Dickens in camp; Mr. Thompson's Prodigal; etc.; Current Literature. The Overland is published in San Francisco by John H. Carmany & Co., and by the American News Company, New York.

OIL TARIFF OF THE OIL CREEK & ALLEGHENY RIVER RAILWAY.—The following schedule of rates went into effect Monday, July 4th: All points to Corry, 50 cents per barrel; all points to Irvineton, except Tidioute, 50 cents, per barrel; Tidioute to Irvineton, 40 cents per barrel; Tidioute to Oil City, 40 cents; stations between White Oak and Henry's Bend, to Oil City, 35 cents; stations between Oleopolis and Oil City, 30 cents; Titusville, Miller and Gregg's, 50 cents; Pioneer 45 cents; Boyd farm, 28 cents; stations between Oil City and Petroleum Centre, to Oil City, 25 cents.

THE connection between Titusville and Pleasantville is as intimate as that between the Siamese Twins. Pleasantville is benefitted by everything which benefits Titusville, and is as permanently established. Talk about Titusville swallowing Pleasantville up; that was consumated when the last plank was laid which connects the two places.—Gaslight.

BUSINESS CHANGE.—The well known firm of Birchard & Lewis, Bakers and Grocers, has been changed by the retirement of Mr. Lewis, who is succeeded by I. Willard. The same line of business will be carried on as before. The firm make a speciality of keeping very choice family groceries, fruits, vegetables &c. The products of their Bakery are also a marked feature in their goods. Lately they have taken a room two doors north of their main store which is stocked with choice fresh fish of all kinds known to this market. Goods are delivered promptly to any part of the city.

GEORGE HABERNIGG, merchant tailor, No. 7 Broas' row, Franklin street, Titusville, Pa. I hereby notify the citizens of Titusville and vicinity that I have on hand and will make to order those nice and cool summer coats, without linings, from $12 to $18. Such a coat in hot weather is very comfortable. Call and see them. Work guaranteed. GEO. HABERNIGG.

FAMILIES wishing to purchase pure liquors for medicinal purposes will consult their own interest by calling on E. H. Crittenden, Corinthian Hall block, No. 11 Spring street, Titusville, before purchasing elsewhere.

I will guarantee that my whiskies, and all my imported wines, brandies, &c., are perfectly pure, and not adulterated in any shape or manner. I have constantly on hand a large stock of the best brands of Scotch Ales and London Porter. Also on draught by the gallon or in smaller quantities to suit purchasers the celebrated Ilion Ale.

I have constantly on hand a very fine assortment of Champagne, consisting of the following well known brands: Cliquot, Moet Chandon, Roderer, Mumm & Co., Piper, Heidsick, Imperial, Sillery, &c. My stock of Claret and Catawba Wines is unexcelled in this country, and I am prepared to furnish families with Claret Wines of the very best quality at prices lower than ever before known in this country. Having the agency of the very best brands of California Brandy, Port Wine and Sherry, I am prepared to sell that line of goods at very low figures.

I would call the attention of the public to the fact that whiskies sold by me are not made in one day by the new process, but are made by one of the oldest firms in the country, and are allowed to mature fully before being offered to the public. My connection with the oldest Importing House in the country enables me to sell my goods cheaper than any House in Northwestern Pennsylvania.

E. H. CRITTENDEN, Agent.

A NEW and complete supply of goods just received at D. Harris & Bro.'s. One of our firm having just returned from New York, with a large and select stock of dry goods, &c., &c., we are prepared to offer the same at the lowest market rates. The recent fall in goods have enabled us to offer additional advantages to all desirous of purchasing.

It was formerly asserted that customers could not be waited on at Harris' owing to the great rush of trade, and the insufficiency of attendants. We would respectfully announce that we have secured the services of the following named gentlemen, who will be found able and willing to attend to the demands of our patrons, with courtesy and dispatch:

Mr. Hertz, of New York; Mr. Sperling, of Buffalo, and Mr. Oxley, of Toronto, Ontario.

Please favor us with a call before purchasing elsewhere.

REAL ESTATE.

A BEAUTIFUL HOME for SALE,

AT A LOW PRICE, and on EASY TERMS, about $5000 down, balance on time. It is known as the

FAIRBANKS FARM.

It is situated on the main road, about one and a quarter miles west of Fredonia, Chautauqua county, New York, just outside of the corporation limits, yet having all the advantages of schools, churches, stores, postoffice, &c. Is about five miles east of Brocton, and only about five hours ride on railroad from Titusville. The State Normal School, a first-class institution, is located here. We have a most desirable neighborhood, and the best of society. There is between fifty and sixty acres of land, in good condition; wood plenty for fuel, &c. A great variety of fruit; a large apple orchard, peaches, plums, pears, cherries, quinces, grapes, currants, raspberries, strawberries, &c. The improvements are a first-class brick house, well built, containing eleven rooms, with large dry cellar, wood shed, good barn and carriage-house combined. The house is built on an eminence, and is surrounded by a large and choice variety of shrubbery, shade trees, evergreens, &c., and is altogether a very desirable place. Possession will be given at once, as the owner intends returning west. For further information address MRS. M. A. JAMES, je11-2m Box 51, Fredonia, N. Y.

LOTS IN THE CITY.

The mill property, head of Franklin street, has been divided into lots, and will be sold at prices varying from $150 to $1,500, with buildings thereon. Terms easy. Also, HOUSE AND LOT, 50x180. Price $4,000.

MISCELLANEOUS.

HILL,

HAS TURNED UP AGAIN

In the midst of LUMBER and ICE, which he wants to sell, in order to extricate himself from a financial crisis and prepare for a specie basis. I am bound to sell with the market and lower if necessary. I have a large stock of Pine and Hemlock Logs that will be sawed to order, and will keep a stock of Boards, Joists, Timber, &c., on hand constantly; also, Fence Pickets, Dressed and in the rough, and Lath, &c., &c.

I have also about 350 tons of ICE. Two hundred tons of it is the best of Ice, being made of spring water; balance good fair article, that will be sold cheap. Customers that commence with me will be carried through the season at the price we commence at, and shall be delivered promptly. Circulars, giving terms and price, will be distributed. Orders given through the Post Office or left at my office or residence, on Spring street, first door west of the Catholic church, or at my Mill, on Church Run, will receive prompt attention.
